

Forcing current FM translator services to bow out because of LPFM stations would represent a serious loss to my community.

I listen to Air 1 Radio Network out of Rocklin, CA even though I am all the way across the country in Central Florida.

Air 1 provides a safe, friendly radio frequency that parents can feel confident about playing while their children are around.

Air 1 also cares about the community. During the very nerve wracking time earlier this year when my area was pummeled by storm after storm, some one from the Air 1 staff personally called me to make sure that I was safe and ask if they could help me in ANY way.

If Air 1 were to be displaced by a LPFM broadcaster, I feel my community would lose the proactive and caring contributions that it continues to bring.
